II. RISK FACTORS

1. Economic Risks

In 2025, Vietnam's GDP growth reached 8.02%, achieving the target set by the National Assembly and the Government. This growth rate is second only to the 8.54% increase recorded in 2022 during the 2011–2025 period. The agriculture, forestry, and fishery sector grew by 3.78%, contributing 5.30% to the total added value growth of the economy; the industry and construction sector grew by 8.95%, contributing 43.62%; the service sector grew by 8.62%, contributing 51.08%. Within the service sector, key market-driven sub-sectors posted the following growth: transportation and warehousing grew by 10.99%; accommodation and catering services grew by 10.02%; wholesale and retail trade grew by 8.52%; and financial, banking, and insurance activities grew by 7.82%. Inflation was kept under control at an appropriate level. The average Consumer Price Index (CPI) in Q4 2025 increased by 3.44% year-on-year; the average CPI for full-year 2025 rose by 3.31%, lower than the 3.63% increase in 2024. Core inflation rose by 3.21%.[1]

In 2026, several risks continue to pose potential impacts on Vietnam's economic growth and stability, as well as MB's operational performance, including:

External/Objective Risks: (i) Political risks and economic fluctuations impacting the global economy, which could directly affect Vietnam's exports and foreign direct investment (FDI) attraction, including rising global trade protectionism and prolonged political and military conflicts in Russia-Ukraine and the Middle East; (ii) climate change phenomena and impacts such as saltwater intrusion, drought, storms, floods, and upstream water resource exploitation, which adversely affect agricultural production and spill over into processing and agribusiness sectors; and (iii) volatility in international financial and monetary markets, interest rate levels, and exchange rates, which could impact the business environment for credit institutions.

Internal Economic Risks: (i) Risk of low-quality growth, as Vietnam's economy remains heavily dependent on input accumulation (capital, labor, natural resources) and external growth drivers, lacking sustainability while Total Factor Productivity (TFP) contribution to GDP remains low and improves slowly; (ii) modest improvement in economic competitiveness, especially amid structural reform, unbalanced financial market development, and low technological readiness/development levels among domestic enterprises; and (iii) limited quality of human resources, low labor productivity, and constrained capacity for scientific and technological application, particularly against the demands of the Industry 4.0 revolution.

Operating in the banking sector, MB is directly exposed to both macro-external and internal economic risks, while also playing a critical role in determining input costs for other industries. Any macroeconomic shift could significantly and adversely affect the business, financial condition, operating results, and use of offering proceeds for the Issuer. However, MB regularly conducts research, analysis, and forecasting of macroeconomic trends, financial markets, and related variables to formulate appropriate operating scenarios, thereby proactively adjusting its business plans and risk management measures across different periods.

2. Legal Risks

Overall, Vietnam's economy and financial markets are still in a developing phase. Key legislative frameworks, including the Civil Code, Commercial Law, Law on Securities, Law on Investment, Law on Enterprises, and Law on Credit Institutions, continue to undergo revisions and enhancements. Changes in policies, as well as variations in legal interpretation and application, may lead to unintended consequences that could materially and adversely affect the Issuer's business performance.

The State Bank of Vietnam (SBV) regulates commercial banking operations and exercises significant influence over the financial and banking sector as a whole. The SBV and other regulatory agencies may issue and/or modify standards, guidelines, and supervisory regulations governing banks generally and MB specifically. The nature and impact of future legislative, regulatory, and policy changes are unpredictable and beyond MB's control, and such changes could adversely affect MB's financial condition and results of operations. Investors should note that Vietnamese legal regulations may differ from those in other jurisdictions.

3. Industry-Specific Risks

In addition to macroeconomic risks, business operations may also be impacted by factors specific to the banking industry and the Issuer.

3.1. Credit Risk

Credit risk refers to the risk that a customer fails or becomes unable to fulfill part or all of their debt obligations under a contract or agreement with the bank (excluding counterparty credit risk).

Credit risk can arise from an incomplete legal framework for credit activities; incomplete or unauthentic information provided by clients; intentional default or fraud by clients; general downturns in regional or global economies; deteriorating business performance of borrowers; natural disasters, pandemics, or other force majeure events impacting the economy. All such risks may affect MB's ability to recover loans and require the bank to increase its provision expenses for credit losses.

To mitigate credit risk, MB maintains a credit risk management policy adhering to core principles:

- Establishing an appropriate credit risk management environment;
- Operating under a sound credit granting process;
- Maintaining an appropriate process for credit administration, measurement, and monitoring; and
- Ensuring adequate controls over credit risk.

MB conducts multi-tier credit approvals to ensure independent assessment; approval authority is tied to assigned credit limits for each authorized level. Furthermore, the Bank's credit approval framework involves a Credit Committee to ensure centralized, high-quality decision-making.

The Bank utilizes an internal credit rating system approved by the SBV as a tool to manage credit risk, assigning a risk rating to each customer. Ratings are reviewed and updated regularly. System-wide rating data and results are centrally controlled and managed at Head Office, serving as the basis for credit approval, service provision, and statutory risk provisioning.

3.2. Market Risk

Market risk is the risk of losses resulting from adverse movements in market interest rates, foreign exchange rates, stock prices, and commodity prices. Market risk encompasses: a) Interest Rate Risk: risk arising from adverse interest rate fluctuations impacting the value of valuable papers, interest-bearing financial instruments, and interest rate derivatives on the bank's trading book; b) Foreign Exchange Risk: risk arising from adverse exchange rate movements when the bank holds open foreign currency positions; c) Equity Risk: risk arising from adverse stock price movements impacting the value of equities and equity derivatives on the bank's trading book; d) Commodity Risk: risk arising from adverse commodity price movements impacting the value of commodity derivatives and spot transactions subject to commodity price risk.

Market risk exposure on the Bank's trading book is measured using modern models and tools, managed by setting risk limits and early warning mechanisms, and monitored daily. Risk measurement and monitoring units operate independently from risk-taking units, ensuring independence and objectivity in MB's risk management.

3.3. Interest Rate Risk in the Banking Book (IRRBB)

IRRBB is the risk arising from adverse interest rate movements affecting the banking book, impacting capital and earnings. IRRBB includes:

- Repricing Risk: Arising from timing mismatches in the repricing or maturity of assets and liabilities (including off-balance-sheet items) on the banking book;
- Basis Risk: Arising from differences in the interest rates used to reprice assets and liabilities (including off-balance-sheet items) with similar maturities;
- Option Risk: Arising from automatic or behavioral options embedded in banking book assets and liabilities (including off-balance-sheet items) that alter cash flow timing and values, comprising:
    - Automatic Option Risk: Occurs when interest rate changes trigger contractually bound options;
    - Behavioral Option Risk: Occurs when interest rate changes alter customer behavior.

MB manages IRRBB prudently. IRRBB exposure is measured via advanced tools and models, managed through limits, and monitored daily and weekly. IRRBB management follows robust methodologies to measure and monitor basis interest rate risk in line with international practices (Basel II, moving toward Basel III) and SBV regulations.

3.4. Operational Risk

Operational risk is the risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, policies, people, and systems, or from external events. It includes legal risk but excludes reputational and strategic risks. To manage operational risk effectively, MB has established an Operational Risk Management (ORM) framework based on Basel II principles (covering risk appetite, strategy, policies, and risk profiles) and implemented ORM tools to assist operating units (including Loss Data Collection - LDC, Risk and Control Self-Assessment - RCSA, Key Risk Indicators - KRI, and capital calculation tools).

MB prioritizes building a comprehensive internal regulatory and operational process system, strengthening internal audit/control from Head Office to branches, and maintaining stable IT and cybersecurity infrastructure to ensure continuous, safe, and efficient operations.

Despite implementing controls according to international standards and regulations, MB cannot eliminate operational risks. Operational risk events, if realized, could adversely impact MB's operating results, financial condition, and reputation.

3.5. Liquidity Risk

Liquidity risk arises when: (a) the Bank is unable to meet its financial obligations as they fall due; or (b) the Bank can meet obligations but only at costs significantly higher than market average under internal regulations. As a primary banking risk that often stems from or compounds other risks, liquidity risk management receives paramount focus at MB.

Supported by a 3-lines-of-defense ORM framework, MB manages intraday liquidity, mobilizes capital, maintains minimum cash flows, holds at least 30 days of buffer liquidity, monitors high-quality liquid assets (HQLA) in real time, assesses cash convertibility, manages product/market liquidity risks, and prepares contingency funding plans for crisis periods.

Liquidity measurement and control occur continuously throughout the day, ensuring full compliance with SBV and internal limits. Daily early warning mechanisms and risk evaluations allow MB to address temporary or extended liquidity shortfalls promptly.

MB measures and builds roadmaps to comply with Liquidity Coverage Ratio (LCR) and Net Stable Funding Ratio (NSFR) standards under Basel III, which are stricter than SBV requirements. MB also optimizes liquidity models—such as cash inflow/outflow forecasting and customer behavior modeling (early withdrawal, auto-rollover, early repayment, and default rates)—to more accurately capture true liquidity positions and optimize funding efficiency.

3.6. Concentration Risk

Like most commercial banks in Vietnam, MB's lending activities are partially concentrated in certain key sectors. Consequently, a downturn in specific economic sectors could lead to an increase in non-performing loans (NPLs), which may adversely affect MB's financial condition and operating results.

However, funded sectors are selected through rigorous analysis of growth potential, trends, and strategic importance in Vietnam's economy. MB also enforces credit limits for specific sectors to mitigate concentration risk.

3.7. Off-Balance-Sheet Risks

Off-balance-sheet activities include business operations recorded under "Off-Balance Sheet Items," such as guarantees and letters of credit (L/Cs). Risk arises if a client fails to perform their obligations to beneficiaries, forcing the bank to step in and honor those commitments, which are then converted into on-balance-sheet credit exposures.

4. Offering-Related Risks

4.1. Risks of the Public Share Offering

MB's rights offering to existing shareholders takes place against a backdrop of financial market and macroeconomic fluctuations. Under unfavorable market conditions, or if subscription demand/capacity among existing shareholders is lower than expected, the ununderwritten nature of this offering means the Bank may not sell all offered shares. Consequently, MB might not raise the targeted capital, potentially impacting the execution timeline of its capital usage plan. To mitigate this risk, the General Meeting of Shareholders (GSM) has authorized the Board of Directors (BOD) to proactively distribute fractional and unexercised shares to other investors at a price not lower than the offering price to existing shareholders, in compliance with applicable offering regulations.

4.2. Risks Regarding the Use of Offering Proceeds

The purpose of MB's public share offering is to strengthen its financial capacity and supplement operating capital for business operations.

However, the actual deployment efficiency of the proceeds may be influenced by macroeconomic shifts, financial market conditions, the competitive environment, or other force majeure factors beyond MB's control. Consequently, actual returns from the capital deployment may deviate from projections, impacting MB's operational results and profitability. Investors should carefully evaluate this risk before investing.

5. Dilution Risk

Upon issuing additional shares to increase charter capital, the total number of MB shares in circulation will increase accordingly.

Total issued shares as of December 31st, 2025: | 8,054,999,909 shares

Treasury shares as of December 31st, 2025: | 0 shares

Total outstanding shares as of December 31st, 2025: | 8,054,999,909 shares

Total shares registered for offering: | 805,499,990 shares

Total outstanding shares post-offering: | 8,860,499,899 shares

An increase in circulating shares will dilute MB's stock. Potential impacts of stock dilution include:

- Earnings Per Share (EPS):

EPS may decrease because net profit after tax is distributed over a larger volume of shares. However, this effect depends partly on the additional income generated from the capital raised in this offering.

Formula:

$$EPS = \frac{\text{Profit (loss) attributable to ordinary shareholders}}{\text{Weighted average number of outstanding shares during the period}}$$

Where:

$$\text{Weighted average number of outstanding shares during the period} = \frac{X \times 12 + Y \times T}{12}$$

- ✓ X: Number of outstanding shares as of December 31, 2025
- ✓ Y: Number of additional shares issued to the public
- ✓ T: Actual months of circulation during the year for additional shares

Assuming the offering closes on October 30, 2026:

$$\text{Weighted average outstanding shares in 2026} = \frac{8{,}054{,}999{,}909 \times 12 + 805{,}499{,}990 \times 2}{12}$$

$$= 8{,}189{,}249{,}907 \text{ shares}$$

Assuming projected 2026 Net Profit After Tax is VND 31,526,560,000,000:

$$\text{Projected 2026 EPS (Pre-dilution)} = \frac{31{,}526{,}560{,}000{,}000}{8{,}054{,}999{,}909} = \text{VND } 3{,}913/\text{share}$$

$$\text{Projected 2026 EPS (Post-dilution)} = \frac{31{,}526{,}560{,}000{,}000}{8{,}189{,}249{,}907} = \text{VND } 3{,}849/\text{share}$$

- Book Value Per Share (BVPS)

Formula:

$$\text{Book Value Per Share} = \frac{\text{Owner's Equity}}{\text{Issued Shares} - \text{Treasury Shares}}$$

Based on MB's audited consolidated financial statements for 2024 and 2025, Book Value is determined as follows:

Item	Unit	As of Dec 31st, 2024	As of Dec 31st, 2025
Owner's Equity	VND million	117,059,581	142,022,525
Weighted average ordinary shares in circulation	Shares	5,306,324,052	8,054,999,909
- Treasury shares	Shares	-	-
Book Value Per Share	VND	22,060	17,632

Upon completion of the offering, if equity growth lags behind share volume growth, BVPS will decrease, and vice versa.

- Market Price of Shares
  - ✓ If the closing price of MBB shares on the trading day immediately preceding the ex-rights date is greater than the offering price:

On the ex-rights date, the reference share price will be adjusted as follows:

$$P_{pl} = \frac{P_t + P_{r1} \times I_1}{1 + I_1}$$

Where:

- ✓ P_{pl}: Diluted share price.
- ✓ P_t: Closing price on the last trading day prior to ex-rights date (Assumed: VND 30,000/share);
- ✓ P_{r1}: Subscription price for additional rights issued to existing shareholders (VND 10,000/share);
- ✓ I_1: Capital increase ratio from public offering to existing shareholders (10%);

Using these assumptions, the adjusted reference price on the ex-rights date is calculated as:

$$P_{pl} = \frac{30{,}000 + (10{,}000 \times 10\%)}{1 + 10\%} = \text{VND } 28{,}181.8/\text{share}$$

- ✓ If the closing price of MBB shares on the last trading day before the ex-rights date is lower than the offering price, the reference price on the ex-rights date will not be adjusted.

- Ownership and Voting Rights Ratio

A shareholder's ownership and voting percentage will decrease proportionally if the shareholder declines to exercise their subscription rights in this offering (compared to their position before the record date).

Dilution risks may not always materialize and depend heavily on market conditions and the Bank's operational efficiency. However, because these factors directly or indirectly impact shareholder returns, investors should carefully evaluate them.

6. Corporate Governance Risks

MB is committed to practicing corporate governance (CG) in full compliance with applicable Vietnamese laws. MB incorporates domestic and international practices, such as the Vietnam Corporate Governance Code (VNCG Code) and OECD Principles of Corporate Governance, aiming for operational efficiency, transparency, and sustainable development. MB also references the 2021 ASEAN Corporate Governance Scorecard for self-assessment.

MB operates under a corporate governance structure dictated by the SBV and Basel II principles (as specified in Circular No. 13/2018/TT-NHNN dated May 18th, 2018) and prudential indicators (Circular No. 41/2016/TT-NHNN dated December 30th, 2016). Powers and duties are balanced among the General Meeting of Shareholders, Board of Directors, and Executive Board in accordance with the Law on Credit Institutions, Law on Enterprises, and Law on Securities.

MB maintains a high-level supervisory framework and a three-lines-of-defense model per Circular 13/2018/TT-NHNN and Basel guidelines. High-level supervision consists of two tiers: the BOD/Board of Supervisors tier and the Executive Board tier. Execution involves operational functions and the three lines of defense: (i) Line 1: Revenue-generating business units, risk-taking functions, limit allocation/transaction risk controls, accounting, HR, and front-line operational risk managers, (ii) Line 2: Risk Management, Compliance, Quality Management, Financial Control, Security, and Inspection/Investigation, (iii) Line 3: Accounting and human resources functions, (iv) other ownership and risk management functions—dealing directly with business, support, and operational risks. The second line of defense comprises risk management, compliance, quality management, financial control, security and safety, and inspection/investigation. The third line of defense is internal audit.

Governance risks may arise if control structures break down due to duty failures, lack of transparency, or power abuses across any of the tiers, potentially causing loss of control.

Risk Control Measures: MB continuously enhances its risk framework and adopts international standards:

(1) The enterprise-wide risk management framework is fully integrated to manage key operational risks (credit, operational, market, liquidity, IRRBB, IT, concentration, and fraud risks) per Basel, COSO, and ISO practices. MB's risk management policy and risk appetite are formally documented and clearly articulated to guide the comprehensive identification of risks associated with its business operations. Principles, management mechanisms, and thresholds—along with limits for controlling material risks—are established and periodically monitored to ensure alignment with the bank's risk appetite and business activities.

(2) High-level oversight and the three-lines-of-defense model are embedded under Circular 13/2018/TT-NHNN. Responsibilities of the Board of Directors and the CEO regarding internal control, risk management, capital adequacy assessment, and internal audit activities are standardized to ensure independence, preventing any single individual or unit from simultaneously performing both "executive" and "governance" functions).

(3) MB fosters a risk-aware culture. At MB, every employee is aware of their individual responsibility to identify, assess, control, mitigate, and report risks, thereby taking risk factors into account when performing their assigned duties. Furthermore, MB consistently issues risk warnings and shares lessons learned from past incidents, helping employees heighten their awareness of compliance with legal regulations and internal policies and procedures.

7. Other Risks

Beyond the mentioned factors, MB remains exposed to force majeure risks such as earthquakes, natural disasters, storms, floods, fires, wars, epidemics, or terrorism, which could directly or indirectly impact business performance of MB.

10.1.3 Raising capital

Through phased capital mobilization strategies, MB develops capital mobilization policies that are appropriate to its business situation at each period. MB's strategy prioritizes demand deposits and short-term deposits with high stability. This gives MB an advantage in terms of input capital mobilization costs compared to competing banks. In addition, MB also mobilizes capital in medium-term and long-term maturities with a suitable structure to meet medium- and long-term lending needs and ensure compliance with regulatory safety ratios and limits.

MB focuses on mobilizing capital from the public, a crucial component in stabilizing the capital flow for MB's business operations. With diverse and flexible products designed to meet the maximum needs of depositors, MB's individual customer capital mobilization has consistently shown stable growth over time. In addition, MB has successfully focused on mobilizing capital from the high-end individual customer segment, effectively serving its overall strategy. Leveraging its leading position in digital transformation, MB has launched numerous digital products and services, including digital deposits and savings accounts that can be opened directly on the MBBank app (for individual customers), and is gaining increasing trust from this customer segment.

Besides individual customers, MB also implements various solutions to attract deposits from institutional customers through the BizMB digital platform specifically for corporate customers, a sales network, and management support from the vertical axis of the CIB (large corporate clients), SME (small and medium-sized enterprises) business units, and other financial institutions.

According to the audited consolidated financial statements for 2025, MB's total capital mobilization as of 31/12/2025 reached VND 1,408,009,358 million, an increase of 46.02% compared to the same period in 2024. Of this, customer deposits in 2025 increased by 29.02% compared to 2024. The ability to mobilize capital stably and diversified from multiple channels has helped MB effectively control liquidity risk and ensure the smooth operation of its business.

MB's credit growth is aligned with the direction of the Government, the State Bank of Vietnam, and its core business values. MB's business strategy ensures that the quality of credit operations is prioritized and forms the basis for building a stable and long-term customer base.

❖ Credit portfolio quality and non-performing loan ratio (bad debt)

MB's lending activities are developed on the principles of selectivity, safety, and efficiency, with credit quality as the foundation for determining credit growth. MB has completed the construction of models to measure the probability of default (PD), estimate the expected loss rate (LGD), and estimate the outstanding loan value at the time of default (EAD), meeting Basel 2 standards. MB always considers the growth and development of the credit portfolio to be based on the principle of ensuring the best credit quality, and MB's credit portfolio is always tightly controlled. The redesign of the credit process towards centralization and the organization of a centralized appraisal, approval, and operation system at the Head Office, with clearly defined authority, ensures the principle of independence and objectivity from the business department, and a high degree of specialization. The non-performing loan ratio according to consolidated data as of 30/06/2026 is 1.45%, ensuring the plan set by the MB Board of Directors for 2026 with the target of <1.5%.

❖ Interest rate risk and MB's credit risk provisioning situation.

MB's operations are subject to interest rate volatility risk as interest-bearing assets and liabilities mature at different times or with different values. Some assets have no specific maturity date or are highly sensitive to interest rates and do not correspond to specific liabilities.

On July 11, 2024, the Government issued Decree No, 86/2024/ND-CP, and on June 30, 2024, the State Bank of Vietnam issued Circular 31/2024/TT-NHNN; these two documents replace Circular 11/2021/TT-NHNN. From 2024, MB has classified loans according to risk levels as follows: standard loans, loans requiring attention, substandard loans, doubtful loans, and loans with a high risk of loss, as stipulated in Circular 31/2024/TT-NHNN. Loans classified as substandard, doubtful, and loans with a high risk of loss are considered bad debts.

The specific risk provisioning principles comply with Decree 86/ND-CP and are determined by multiplying the outstanding loan balance after deducting the value of the collateral that has been deducted by the provision rate based on the loan classification results as of 30/06/2026.

Table 14: Provisioning rates as stipulated in Decree 86/2024/ND-CP

3	Substandard debt	20%
4	Doubtful debt	50%

MB simultaneously applies regulations on restructuring loan repayment terms and maintaining the same loan classification for loans that meet the requirements of Circular 02/2023/TT-NHNN and Circular 06/2024/TT-NHNN on restructuring loan repayment terms and maintaining the same loan classification for customers facing difficulties, issued by the State Bank of Vietnam on April 23, 2023 (expiring on 31/12/2024); and Circular 53/2024/TT-NHNN on restructuring and maintaining the same loan classification for customers facing difficulties due to the impact and damage of Typhoon No, 3, flooding, landslides after Typhoon No, 3, dated December 4, 2024.

The general provision as of 30/06/2026, is set at 0.75% of the total outstanding balance of all liabilities, excluding deposits and loans to other credit institutions and liabilities classified as potentially unrecoverable.

10.3. Risk Management and Capital Preservation

10.3.1. Overview of Risk Management

In 2025, the State Bank of Vietnam issued Circular No, 14/2025/TT-NHNN dated June 30, 2025, on regulating capital adequacy ratios for commercial banks and branches of foreign banks (Circular 14), replacing Circular No, 41/2016/TT-NHNN dated December 30, 2016, This marks an important step in perfecting the legal framework for capital governance based on a more advanced approach, affirming the direction of banking operations according to international standards, especially Basel III.

With a strategic vision to become a comprehensively digitally transformed financial group and enterprise in the period 2022-2026, MB identifies intelligent and superior risk management as a crucial foundation in all strategic phases. As a pioneering bank in applying international risk management standards, in 2024 and 2025, within the framework of the Basel III project, PwC independently reviewed, assessed, and certified MB's compliance with Basel III regulations in measuring LCR and NSFR. MB's implementation of the risk management platform has been consistent, thorough, comprehensive, proactive, and involves a combination of research, experimentation, application, and rapid adjustments to its business practices.

10.3.2. Current Risk Management Policies

The most significant financial risks that MB typically faces are credit risk, liquidity risk, and market risk. MB's orientation is to become a diversified financial group. Therefore, the use of financial instruments, including raising capital from customers (through deposit products and the issuance of securities) and investing in high-quality financial assets, has become a key activity to help MB achieve the necessary interest rate spread. From a risk management perspective, MB needs to maintain a balanced portfolio of assets, liabilities, and capital (including on-balance and off-balance sheet items) for the purpose of safety and minimizing banking risks. In addition, MB invests in securities and provides credit to other banks. Risks related to foreign exchange trading and interest rate changes are managed through the application of position limits to prevent excessive concentration and through balancing activities to minimize risk. MB holds a significant amount of high-quality financial instruments to hedge risks and ensure liquidity. In addition, MB engages in various hedging transactions involving financial instruments such as foreign currency forward commitments, foreign currency swap commitments, and cross-currency interest rate swap commitments for the purpose of managing interest rate and currency risks. In managing credit risk, MB applies a Credit Manual detailing lending policies and procedures, as well as implementation guidelines, to standardize MB's credit operations. Liquidity risk is mitigated through maintaining a reasonable amount of cash and cash equivalents in Nostro accounts, time deposits at the State Bank and other credit institutions, and securities, Risk-weighted safety ratios are also used to manage liquidity risk. MB regularly assesses interest rate spreads, comparing them with domestic and international markets to make timely adjustments, Furthermore, the application of internal risk management processes has become more effective thanks to the implementation of a Centralized Capital Management System and a Centralized Payment System, whereby all MB's capital and payment transactions are handled by the Head Office. This allows MB to more effectively monitor capital changes and reduce potential errors as well as unnecessary complex procedures.

❖ Credit risk management

Credit risk is an inherent risk in the business operations of banks. Credit risk is the possibility of loss occurring due to a customer's failure or inability to fulfill their obligations as agreed.

MB has maintained a credit risk management policy that ensures the following fundamental principles:

- Establishing a suitable credit risk management environment;
- Operating according to a sound credit granting process;
- Maintain a proper credit management, measurement, and monitoring process; and
- Ensure adequate control over credit risk,

MB conducts credit reviews through multiple levels to ensure that each loan is considered independently; at the same time, loan approvals are made based on the credit limits assigned to each level of authority. In addition, the Bank's credit approval model involves a Credit Committee to ensure that credit approval is centralized and of the highest quality,

The bank is using an internal credit rating system approved by the State Bank of Vietnam as a management tool to manage credit risk, whereby each customer is classified at a risk level. This risk level can be revised and updated regularly. Data and rating results for customers across the system are centrally controlled and managed at the head office. This forms the basis for granting credit and providing services to customers.

❖ Liquidity risk management

Liquidity risk arises in MB's fundraising process in general and in the management of MB's cash positions. Liquidity risk includes the risk of being unable to raise assets at appropriate maturity dates and interest rates, as well as the risk of being unable to liquidate an asset at a reasonable price and within a suitable timeframe.

Liquidity risk is measured using indicators related to MB's cash flow, fundraising capacity, and asset liquidity.

❖ Operational Risk Management (ORM)

Although MB is one of the leading banks in applying risk management policies and techniques in its operations, fully controlling and protecting MB from all risks remains a challenge. To mitigate these risks, MB is in the process of perfecting its risk management system and adopting international standards and practices in risk management, specifically:

- MB has issued a complete system of policy documents applicable to operational risk as required by the State Bank of Vietnam, ensuring the principles of risk management and MB's risk appetite, such as the Operational Risk Management Strategy – integrated into the Board of Directors' General Risk Management Policy, the Emergency Handling Regulations, the Operational Risk Management Regulations, and the Operational Risk Management Procedures.

- The operational risk management organizational structure is organized and functionally defined according to a three-tiered protection model, ensuring appropriateness, effectiveness, and avoiding conflicts of interest, Tier 1 includes business/operations/support functions, human resources, information technology, and internal control; Tier 2 includes risk management, compliance, inspection, and finance; and Tier 3 is internal audit, The roles and responsibilities of each level in operational risk management are clearly defined, ensuring the supervisory role of senior management (Board of Directors, Supervisory Board, General Director) over all aspects of operational risk management, with active advice and support from committees and councils.
- Risk management is implemented synchronously across the entire system through risk management tools including (i) loss data collection (LDC), (ii) risk self-assessment/evaluation and applied control measures (RCSA), (iii) development and monitoring of key risk indicators (KRIs), and (iv) analysis of findings during inspections and audits, enabling MB to proactively, fully, and promptly control risks in all business activities, products, business processes, information technology systems, and other management systems of the bank.

❖ Market risk

MB's market risk management framework is a close combination of organizational structure based on the three lines of defense principle and internal regulations, models, limits, etc,; Market risk is managed through a process of identification, measurement, monitoring, control, and reporting, under normal conditions and conditions of significant fluctuations in securities prices, commodity prices, exchange rates, and interest rates.

Market risk is comprehensively assessed and identified across all transactions, products, and positions on MB's trading book. This risk is measured and monitored daily through limits and warning thresholds, MB manages market risk limits including open interest limits, stop-loss limits, sensitivity limits based on interest rate changes (PV01), and the estimated value of risk (VaR) of an investment over a given period. These limits quantify the impact of exchange rate and interest rate fluctuations on the risk and return of the portfolio, Daily monitoring and measurement of these limits enables MB to take timely measures to mitigate risks from market volatility and their impact on business profitability. In 2025, in addition to reviewing and periodically updating policies, regulations, and procedures, MB will upgrade its Front-to-Back system, enhance automation, and refine the automatic discount yield curve of trading portfolios to quickly and promptly reflect market fluctuations in the portfolio, contributing to improved efficiency in market risk management.

❖ Interest rate risk on the bank account,

MB has built a framework for managing interest rate risk on the banking book that is a close combination of organizational structure based on the three lines of defense principle and internal regulations, models, limits, etc,; Implementing interest rate risk management on the banking book ensures a governance process with solid methodologies, helping to measure and monitor base interest rate risk, meeting international practices such as Basel II and aiming to meet Basel III as well as complying with the regulations of the State Bank of Vietnam.

In 2025, MB will continue to review and periodically update its policies, procedures, and methodologies for measuring risk, monitoring, and supervising interest rate risk limits on its portfolio, such as the repricing gap profile, changes in net income (ΔNII), changes in economic value of equity (ΔEVE), and applying the results of customer behavior models in determining core deposits, This will serve as the basis for MB to flexibly manage its business operations in accordance with market interest rate fluctuations, thereby helping MB balance the goals of maximizing profits and minimizing risks.

10.3.3. Assessment of the risk management implementation situation at MB

MB has built and operates a comprehensive risk management system, in accordance with the regulations of the State Bank of Vietnam and international practices. The bank applies a three-line-of-defense management model and implements policies, procedures, and management tools for key risks including credit risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, market risk, and interest rate risk on the bank's book.

MB regularly reviews and updates its risk management policies, strengthens the application of technology and modern measurement models to enhance its ability to identify, monitor, and control risks. Risk management is implemented synchronously across the entire system, contributing to ensuring safe and efficient operations and supporting the Bank's sustainable development goals.

1.2. Factors affecting business operations

1.2.1. Key factors affecting the business performance of the Issuer in the two consecutive years preceding the registration year of the public offering,

❖ Favorable:

- Despite the volatile international environment, Vietnam has achieved positive macroeconomic indicators. Fundamental indicators have significantly improved compared to 10 years ago. Foreign direct investment and remittances have grown. Although exchange rates and interest rates have increased generally, they remain under government control.
- The government is implementing policies to promote growth, structural reforms, and attract investment, while simultaneously enhancing the confidence of domestic and foreign businesses and investors, Furthermore, expected continued improvement in people's incomes and a more stable labor market will boost final consumption. In addition, public investment, particularly in transportation infrastructure, energy, and digital transformation, continues to play a leading role, creating a ripple effect on the private sector and the entire economy, Vietnam.

- The State Bank of Vietnam will continue to proactively and flexibly manage monetary policy, coordinating closely with fiscal policy and other policies, ensuring the safety and liquidity of the system, contributing to macroeconomic stability, controlling inflation, ensuring major economic balances, and creating momentum for rapid and sustainable development.
- MB is a reputable bank with 31 years of development, boasting an extensive network and efficient operations over the years. With a clear strategy aimed at becoming a "Digital Enterprise, Leading Financial Group," under the close guidance of the Board of Directors, the Supervisory Board, and the implementation by the Executive Board, and with the support of state management agencies, MB consistently maintains a growth rate 1.2 to 1.5 times higher than the market, depending on the specific indicator. Furthermore, risk management is always prioritized, with the non-performing loan ratio remaining around 1% for many years and the non-performing loan coverage ratio consistently reaching nearly 100%, and at times exceeding 300%.
- By the end of June 30, 2026, MB's market capitalization reached 203 trillion VND, ranking 6th in the industry. MBB's share price increased by 814% from January 1, 2017 to June 30, 2026, 4.5 times higher than the growth rate of the VNIndex (180%) and ranked number 1 in market capitalization growth from January 2017 to June 30, 2026.

❖ Hard

- The macroeconomic environment remains complex with many variables, geopolitical tensions, and sharply rising inflation and interest rates in many countries. New trade barriers: The trend of imposing tariffs and protectionist trade measures from the US could indirectly affect exports.
- At the micro level, declining investor and public confidence significantly impacts certain business sectors, such as investment banking. The Fourth Industrial Revolution, with its focus on artificial intelligence (AI), continues to unfold powerfully, profoundly impacting social life and creating explosive growth worldwide, posing a significant challenge for the future.
- High interest rates coupled with tight credit conditions under the SBV's management will limit MB's growth potential.

❖ The competent authority has approved the revenue and profit plan for 2026:

MB's revenue and profit plan for 2026 was approved by the General Shareholders' Meeting at the 2026 Annual General Shareholders' Meeting.

❖ The basis for achieving the revenue, profit, and profit/dividend distribution targets mentioned above is as follows:

The basis for the company's Board of Directors to formulate this business plan is as follows:

Based on the strategic objectives for the period 2022-2026 approved by the Board of Directors, along with forecasts of macroeconomic conditions, government and SBV policies, and key business tasks for 2026 such as:

- Managing scale growth involves increasing revenue, controlling costs, and managing bad debts.
- Implement the 2022-2026 Strategic Initiative decisively and effectively, leveraging the group's synergy to comprehensively exploit the ecosystem. Completely digitize member companies, accelerating digital transformation in products, services, customers, and labor productivity.
- Continue to strengthen the foundational pillars of the sustainable development framework in accordance with international ESG practices, maintain a green proportion of ~8-10% of the total bank credit volume, and prioritize lending to projects that benefit the environment and society, contributing to national and international sustainable development goals.
- Attracting high-quality customers effectively and leveraging opportunities to expand market share through new business models. Boosting revenue from digital channels, which contribute 60% of total revenue.
- Accelerate the launch of new products and develop them based on customer understanding. Continue to invest heavily in AI projects to improve the bank's labor productivity by at least 10%, striving to reach 20% per year.
- Credit growth will be in accordance with the SBV's approval, steadfastly pursuing the goal of shifting the lending structure towards retail, striving to increase the proportion for individual/micro-SME customer segments by an additional 1.5-3% per year.

- The focus is on sustainable capital mobilization to support high-scale growth rates, ensure liquidity, and comply with the SBV's regulatory safety limits. Maintaining market leadership in CASA ratio and leveraging low-cost funding sources will optimize capital costs.
- Control credit quality (NPL), implement effective risk management solutions aimed at improving asset quality and optimizing provisioning costs. Effectively manage operating costs, maintaining the operating cost-to-income ratio (CIR) at ≤28%.
- Enhance competitiveness and network operational efficiency towards a multi-channel, convenient, and streamlined approach; prioritize increasing market share and optimizing labor productivity.
- Strengthening a corporate culture of unity and discipline coupled with innovation and a "customer-centric" mindset in all decisions. Developing human resources, focusing on training according to standardized competency frameworks, and prioritizing personnel selection for strategic projects/tasks that impact the system.

VII. INFORMATION ABOUT THE OFFERING

1. Type of stock: Common stock

2. Par value of shares: 10,000 VND/share

3. Total number of shares offered : 805,499,990 shares

4. Total value of shares offered at par value: VND 8,054,999,900,000

5. Expected offering price: 10,000 VND/share

6. Pricing method

❖ Pricing method

The principles for determining the issuance price are based on the book value, market price, and an assessment of the expected share dilution after issuance.

- Book value:

  Calculation formula:

$$\text{Book value per share} = \frac{\text{Equity}}{\text{Volume of shares issued - Treasury shares}}$$

Based on the audited financial statements for 2024 and 2025, the book value of MBB as of 31/12/2024 and as of 31/12/2025 is determined as follows:

Item	Unit	31/12/2024	31/12/2025
Equity	Million VND	117,059,581	142,022,525
Number of outstanding shares	Shares	5,306,324,052	8,054,999,909
Treasury stock	shares	-	-
Book value per share	VND	22,060	17,632

At the end of the offering period, if the rate of increase in equity is lower than the rate of increase in the number of shares after the offering, the book value per share will decrease.

• Market value of the stock

On the ex-dividend date, the reference price of the stock will be adjusted according to the following formula:

$$Ppl = \frac{Pt + Pr_1 * I_1}{1 + I_1}$$

In there:

✓ Ppl: Diluted stock price.

✓ Pt: Closing price of the most recent trading day before the ex-dividend date (Assumption: VND 30,000/share);

✓ Pr_1 : Issue price for the right to purchase additional shares issued to existing shareholders (VND 10,000/share);

✓ I_1 : The percentage of additional capital increase through the offering of shares to existing shareholders (10%);

Based on the above assumption, at the time of closing the list for exercising the right to purchase newly issued shares, the market price of the Bank's shares will be adjusted according to the following formula:

$$Ppl = \frac{Pt + [Pr_1 * 10\%]}{1 + 10\%}$$

$$= \frac{30{,}000 + 10{,}000 * 10\%}{1 + 10\%}$$

= 28.181,8 VND/share

Shares are offered to existing shareholders. Due to the preferential nature of the distribution target, and based on the stock market situation, capital needs, market value and book value of the shares, as well as on the basis of price dilution analysis, the offering price of shares to existing shareholders was approved by the General Meeting of Shareholders at VND 10,000 per share.

7. Distribution methods

- Distribution ratio: The newly issued shares are offered to existing shareholders through a rights issue at a ratio of 10:1 (At the time of the record date for exercising the rights, a shareholder owning 1 share is entitled to 1 right, and a shareholder owning 10 rights is entitled to purchase 1 new share).
- Rounding principle: For fractional shares, any fractional shares (if any) arising from the exercise of rights, to ensure that the number of additional shares offered to shareholders for

  The Board of Directors decides on the specific details for the offering to other investors to purchase fractional shares, the number of shares that existing shareholders are entitled to purchase but have not yet been fully distributed (including but not limited to the time/order of execution, offering price, offering conditions, investor selection criteria, investor list, investor search and selection, number of shares distributed to each investor, and other related matters).

  Specifically, the Board of Directors' decision on the details for offering fractional shares to other investors, including shares that existing shareholders are entitled to purchase but have not yet been fully distributed, must comply with the conditions under the 2020 Enterprise Law, the 2019 Securities Law, Decree No. 155/2020/ND-CP, and other relevant legal regulations, including but not limited to the following conditions:
